

Mission Statement

Building communication bridges for connecting Christian workers with their harvest fields and support partners.

Christian workers include the students and graduates at the seminary where I have worked for five years. After this prototype is developed over the next few years I hope to take this model and craft tailor made versions for other seminaries, Bible colleges, mission agencies, denominations and churches. We will offer a license to proprietary the software and systems at a reasonable rate.

Harvest fields include all those that are using the Internet today and that will be coming online in the future. These include unbelievers, seekers, new believers, growing believers and church leaders.

Support partners include intercessors, advisors, donors, encouragers and equippers.

Communication bridges include synergistic systems of media like websites, streaming audio, MP3 downloads, PDF files, Power Point slide shows, CDs, Internet radio station, etc.

Bridge from worker to field carry

Testimony, teaching, preaching, instruction, encouragement

Bridge from field to worker carry

Purchase products, make donations, feed back (comments, suggestions, questions)

Bridge from worker to partner carry

Prayer requests, testimonies of answered prayers, questions for advisors, opportunities for financial support

Bridge from partner to worker carry

Encouragement, suggestions, prayers, funds

Missions

Also the messages will be burned on to CDs and otherwise sent to the mission field particularly to the remote Bible colleges, missionary radio stations and leadership development seminars. Those who over see them will choose what is culturally appropriate and have the option to translate them into the native language and dialects. One of my illustrations for this is that J. Vernon McGee is in heaven today but his teachings are being broadcast on 400 stations in the USA and Canada. He is heard in more than 100 languages plus over the Internet www.thruthe bible.org